[From the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.]

Over the River Rhine. We sat beside a window, We friends and travelers three. Journeying through the Old Word lands, From a country over the sea. And the broad fields lay beneath us Hedged with the clustering vine, As we looked from out our window,

Over the river Rhine. Along its banks were clustered Old towns and villages fair ; And the sound of the chime-bells ringing Pilled e'er and anon the air. And the water rippled and sparkled, Like gems in the summer's shine, As we looked out from our window Over the river Rhine.

And we saw the swift boats gliding On the golden waves below, Or anchored, listlessly swaying With the river's ebb and flow. And we marked afar in the distance Its current's silver line, As we looked out from our window Over the river Rhine.

And we talked of the Past and Future, And the blessed hopes that rise In the golden glow of summer To the youthful dreamer's eyes. Sweet were our dreams that morning, Oh! early friends of mine! As we gazed from out our window Over the river Rhine.

Now, years have rolled between us, And that morning's golden glow, With its pictures and its music, Are things of long ago. And afar in Memory's vista Those blessed visions shine.

More fair than the golden ripples Over the river Rhine. And now, in the gloomy weather, That comes with winter chill, When the blast is bleak and bitter, And the snow shrouds vale and hill, I think of that summer merning, And its blessed memories shrine,

Like a sacred spot, that window

Over the river Rhine. We have stood, since then, by a river, More dark than the ocean tide, And two have crossed its waters, And are safe on the other side I have dreamed of the vales they are treading,

Where flowers of amaranth twine. More sweet than the shining landscape That is clasped by the river Rhine. And I think when I shall join them

In that country over the sea, We shall sit and dream together Once more-we pilgrims three, We shall look from heights supernal Where Time's broad river rolls. Sweeping away below us, With its freight of human souls; And our dreams shall then be real, Lived out in the life divine Of a morn more fair than ever shone

Over the river Rhine.

-" No Salt, No Bacon."-The New York Commercial is jubilant over the future on account of "the non-intercourse with the disloyal States." that he meant o _ense in asking the question. In Missouri, Western Virginia, on the Potomac, everywhere, except on the coast of North Carolina, every thing is looking grandly, especially in the prospects of winter. We quote:

Thousands of families that could safely go almost naked during the hot season, will find it different when their naked limbs are pinched with the blasts of December and January. Such rude visitors have a wondrous effect in dispelling those mirages, formed during the hot season in swampy regions. They will prove a painful but effectual antidote young get leman thought it best to change the against the secession fever.

We say nothing of such articles as paper, of which little is made at the South; locomotives, which are no longer built for sale beyond the Potomac; glass, earthern and wooden ware, of which the seceded States have but few manufactories; tea, coffee and chocolate, which may be dispensed with on a pinch. There is, however, the necessary article of common salt, that can scarcely be procured for love or money at a distance from the sea board. With the absence of salt the omnipresent hog ceases to be an article of value, except for the few hours succeeding his execution. Bacon is, however all in all to the negro, especially during winter; and the impossibility of getting a supply from the North is already having an alarming effect upon the rebel mind. Well the planter understands that with no salt there is no bacon; with no bacon, no Sambo; with no Sambo, no cotton, sugar or rice; with no cotton, no Massa. The ratiocination is so simple that a babe might comprehend it.

York paper says the saddest sight is revealed by a wearing them, and couldn't see why they should ing the streets-for bread: not cunning, or bold, their modes. and starvation. The annovance of the Princess Clothilde it seems continues in New York. It is affirmed that while going to her devotions, her carriage has been way-laid, the sidewalk blocked up, and the church filled with impertinent men and women-especially the latter, who would thrust themselves before her, behind her, and at her side, violating all the commonest dictates of deceney to obtain a glimpse of -The business of impressment is carried on in Memphis, and a regular press-gang organized. In many cases, says the Memphis Avalanche, acts of barbarity have been perpetrated, and not unfre quently have farmers, who were in the city on business, been seized, as well as heads of families whose wives and children depended entirely upon them for support. To such an extent has this barbarous practice been carried that the Council of the City have become alarmed, and appointed a committee to confer with the Archbishop, Major Gen. Polk, upon the subject. Memphis must be a nice place to live in just now.

-ASt. Louis paper says: "We have thousands upon thousands of able-bodied men willing and anxious to work, who cannot find anything to do, though they will not complain of the lowest wages."

-French Wines in England .- The quantities entered for home consumption for the first five months of this year, compared with the corresponding period of the two previous years, are as follows: 1859, 266,995 gallons; 1860, 535,995 gallons; 1861, 1,126,775 gallons, showing an increase over 1859, of 862,810 gallons, or 18,756 hhds, and over 1860, of 593,730 gallons, or 12,908 hbds. Such an increase is wholly unprecedented, and is no doubt owing to the reduction of the duty.

-The marriage of the Prince of Hohenzollern to the Infanta of Portugal was to be celebrated on the the 7th of September.

-The thousandth year of the existence of the Russian empire is to be celebrated next year. In Novgorod a monument has already been commenced to commemorate the occasion.

-The Amazon hat is now worn in Paris, as well as in the country; the Finland hat is also very fashionable, and the Tudor bat, edged with velvet and trimmed with a long curled feather at the side, and pompon in front, finds many friends.

-Economical Shooting .- It seems that the killing of an enemy in battle is neither necessary nor expedient. Col. Peard, "Garibaldi's Englishman," is reported to have said of rifle shooting in war "Mind, if ever you go rifle shooting, use your rifle in a scientific manner. Recollect always not to kill your man, but to wound him; then it takes two men to carry him off, and those two men never by any chance come back the same day. With a double-barrelled rifle, therefore, you may get rid of six men at each discharge."

-Mormon Emigrants-Six thousand Mormon emigrants arrived recently at Salt Lake, in the space of one week.

-The celebrated running Indian, Red Jacket, has issued a challenge to run against any pedestrian in England for from $100 to $600, for a distance of from one to ten miles. He soon leaves for England for the purpose of putting his challenge into execu-

-Good Pluck .- A young man in Sacramento when about to enlist in the volunteers, was asked, if he could sleep on the point of a bayonet, when he promptly replied by saying, that he could try it, as he had often slept on a pint of whisky, and the kind they used down there would kill further than any shooting iron he ever saw." It is needless to say that he was mustered in, with out further inquires.

-A CHINESE OATH .- A new way has been invented in the Police Court (San Francisco) to get the truth out of Chinase witnesses; it remains to to be seen whether it will prove effective or not. This is the way they do it. A slip of Joss paper, with the oath written upon it in Chinese characters, and endorsed with the name of the witness, is burned, he meanwhile repeating the oath, which is -THE MEXICAN INTERVENTION OF ENGLAND AND as follows, when translated from the Celestial FRANCE.—This coming intervention, which we have | lingo : "I, ----, do hereby establish this oath. heard so much about of late, is alluded to by the Now before this Court I will give my testimony and Philadelphia Inquirer's (Republican) Washington evidence according to the strict truth. Our hero again apol ded profusely, and then gave it as his settled conviction that "old Arkansawr" just "knocked the socks" off any Sate in the Union! Finding that inquires about "hum" were regarded as impertment, the subject, and inquired the cause of several angular projections of the young lady's dress. "What them ar ! But grape vines is a gittin' mighty skase out thar now, you bet you!" Out friend says this last break about " let him out," and a man about his size might have been seen, a few minutes after, striding up the road, frantically endeavoring to whistle the " Arkansaw Traveler." If anybody wants to court that gal, they can get the particulars by calling at a hardware store on B street.
